A New Back for an Old One—How it is Done in Maine.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one.

Mrs. E. G. Carver, 98 Oak St., Lewiston, Me., says:—"For about two weeks last January I had such an acute attack of pain in the back that when stooping or lifting I was in misery. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box at a drug store. They helped me from the first. I continued taking them until the pain and lameness disappeared. I am now free from these troubles, and give all the credit to Doan's Kidney Pills.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Mitburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

Adam Through the Garden.

There is much in ancient story. Told of Adam when in his prime, When he thought all joys substantial, And that life was just sublime.

They placed him in a fine old garden Where all was strangely bright and fair, And flowers with fragrance filled the air.

Then Adam loved his home in Eden, And with all these things was pleased, And all things lovely to survey.

And yet with all these things he was not, With all the joys that he had known, He somehow felt a kind of sadness,

Because that he was alone, And while brooding over sorrow—Sorrow he could no longer keep—

Like a tired child he fell to weeping, And like a child he went to sleep.

And when the warden found him sleeping, Sleeping soundly and alone, They quickly cut out his appendix,

But his name was yet unknown. When from this slumber they had taken, A wife was made for him.

Adam arose from his deep slumber, He knew his wife was all his own. At once they had a friendly greeting,

And many were the vows they said; They would have had a short vacation, But Adam's pains were not yet made.

They thought they'd have a more reception, And serve a little fruit and wine; When Eve came out her apron gathered,

She came back as high as nine. The time of figs was not quite yet, The other kinds were not full grown,

For the choice old wine they lost. For Eden's law was strictly on, Eve still was firm and yet undaunted,

Still resolved to have her way. Just plucked and ate the fruit she wanted, And Eve came forward to see the day.

But when the time was appointed Had fully come for their repast, The men then was served quite freely,

For the choice old wine they lost. Now Eden's joys are nearly ending, Some golden days still glide along;

So Adam and Eve are blending Sweetly sing their chosen song. "Chance and change are busy ever,"

Life in Eden is not long; We feared we might be there forever, And never know the right from wrong.

Now we have a clearer vision; Now we see as we were seen; Though we regret our sad condition,

"We may be all we might have been." When the close of day was nearing, We heard a voice that seemed to say,

"Adam, Adam, where art thou?" What has happened here to-day? Now they told just what had happened,

Told all the wrong that had been done; Satan heard their true confession, And quickly had his wiggle on.

The warden said, "Life has its trials, In them you both must share; Both must leave your home in Eden,

But the thought is hard to bear." Satan's case was next on trial, And he heard the cry to go.

And he heard the cry to go, But being firm made no denial, So was simply doomed to go.

Then Satan said, "If these in Eden Can no longer here remain,"

Then let us sing, all sing together, "When shall we three meet again?"

When this parting song was ended, And they had sung the glad refrain, They heard their warden's stern command,

And they all went down on the early train. NORTH EAST LOVELL.

A candidate for parliamentary honors found himself in front of a house near which a number of children were playing.

"Madam, I may kiss these beautiful children, may I not?"

"Certainly," replied the mother.

When he had finished his wholesale contract he turned to the woman and said:

"Seidom have I seen lovelier children, madam."

"Ah, of course they are," gallantly suggested the politician. "The little treasures, from whom else could they have inherited those limpid eyes, those rosy cheeks, and those musical voices?"

But still the lady blushed.

"By the way, madam," said he, "may I impose on your good nature to the extent of asking that you tell your estimable husband that Mr. Cockrell called upon him?"

"Excuse me, sir," said the woman, "I have no husband."

"But these children, madam—surely you are not a widow?"

"I fear there's some mistake, sir. This is an orphan asylum."

SOUTH WATERFORD.

A Sad Case.

Our townspeople have been recently called to mourn the loss of two of its most estimable citizens in the sudden death of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Johnson. It is a sad story. Fred Johnson, son of the deceased couple, had recently returned from a visit to his brother, Winfield S. Johnson, in Ipswich, Mass., and after his arrival home he developed a case of measles, which with pneumonia caused much anxiety concerning his recovery for several days.

When his illness abated and he seemed to be recovering, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, father and mother, were both seized with measles and in about one week both passed away. Mr. Johnson's death occurred on April 14th, and that of Mrs. Johnson on the 15th, less than 30 hours apart.

Mr. Johnson was a native of Norway and was 64 years of age at the time of his death. He moved to this town in 1895 with his youthful bride, Fanny (Bancroft) Johnson of Norway, settled on the farm about 1/2 of a mile east of the Flat, ever after occupied by them, where their two sons were born and where the family had in more than forty years become greatly beloved as citizens and neighbors.

Mr. Johnson was well noted as an intelligent and successful farmer and up to the time of the late sickness of himself and wife both had enjoyed excellent health and bid fair to live many years. Mrs. Johnson's age at death was 60 years.

The obsequies presented the unusual spectacle of a double funeral. The sad burial services were solemnized by Rev. L. J. McKinney of Bridgton. The interment was on Tuesday, April 21, in Elmvalle cemetery.

Since the departure of our late pastor, Rev. E. A. Rumball, our Sundays seem to be quite dull without church services. Now, however, it is announced that Rev. Robert Harbut will preach next Sunday at the Congregational church at the Flat in the forenoon and at the Universalist church, South Village, in the afternoon. ### NORWAY AND VICINITY.

New Night Watchman.
The corporation assessors met Saturday evening and appointed Freeman A. Hall night watchman to succeed George R. Hathaway.
Mr. Hall commenced his new duties Sunday night. He has worked in Norway for the past 16 years, but lived in Oxford until last September when he moved to Norway. For about 20 years he worked at stone work then for 25 months worked at the grist mill of A. C. McCrellis. Since a year ago last October he has been employed as mill hand at C. B. Cummings & Sons' grist mill.
George R. Hathaway has been the night watch here since the corporation voted to pay for the services of a night watch three years ago. Before coming to Norway Mr. Hathaway had several years' experience in police service. For five or more years he was on the police force at Bangor, Maine, of the Penobscot County Jail for two years. He was then appointed Deputy U. S. Marshal, serving in that capacity for three and a half years with headquarters at Portland.

Anaemia or Poor Blood.

Don't Wait Too Long to Correct It—As It Often Leads to Something Worse.

Anaemia is a defective state of the blood in which there is a lack either in quantity or quality of the little red corpuscles.

It may result from any cause that serves to deplete the general system and is recognized by a pale and haggard face—colorless lips, poor circulation and short breath, and the system is at such a low ebb that more serious diseases are easily contracted.

Anaemic people should eat plenty of fruit, eggs, milk, meat, vegetables, good butter and cream and whole wheat bread, and as for a medicine nothing excels our delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, which is made by a scientific extractive and concentrating process from fresh cod's livers, combining with peptonate-of-iron, which is a useful constituent for the blood, all the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil. Vinol is not a patent medicine, you know what you are taking as all it contains is named on the label.

Any anaemic or run-down person in Norway who will follow the above suggestions is sure to be restored to health and strength in a short time. We will return your money if Vinol fails to give satisfaction. Frank P. Stone, Druggist, Norway, Me.

Digging for Tourmalines.

Gambling Chances in the Industry in the Burma Mines.

Tourmaline is a beautiful mineral known according to its color by a variety of names. The red is rubellite, the pale blue or bluish black is indicolite, the Berlin blue is called by jewelers Brazilian emerald, and so on.

"Tourmaline is found in separate crystals in the interstices of hard granitic looking rock. As a consequence men with no means find it occasionally profitable when they have leisure to dig down eight or ten feet on the off chance of finding some not very valuable bits," says C. S. George, deputy commissioner, Ruby Mines District, Burma, in the London Tribune. "This system is called Katho talk or Katho system, after the idea of the original ruby diggers at Katho. The next method is the ordinary Twiloon method of sinking a vertical shaft about four or five feet square. By custom the owner of the shaft is entitled to extend his workings underground anywhere to a radius of five fathoms from the centre of the shaft.

When a vein is found in a vertical shaft about four or five feet square, at times adhering loosely to the rock, at others lying separate in the loose yellow earth that is found with the granite. The vein is followed as far as possible, subject to the five fathom limit alluded to above. What, however, makes the mining so exciting and at the same time keeps the industry fluctuating is that the tourmaline crystals are only found intermittently in the vein.

One may get several in the length of one yard, and then they will unaccountably cease. Directly one man strikes a vein yielding crystals every man who can commence digging along the line of the vein, but it is all a toss-up as to whether, when the vein is reached, there will be tourmaline therein. Adjoining Twiloons give absolutely different results and it is calculated that at least two-thirds of the shafts sunk yield nothing at all, while only an occasional one is at all rich.

Of the 62 Twiloons at the time of Mr. George's visit only three were yielding, and of these only had traces of the best quality stones. The veins are fairly deep down, none having ever been reached at a lesser depth than nine fathoms, while an ordinary depth is 40 or 50 cubits. When the "vein" takes a downward direction it is followed as far as possible but that is rarely over about 60 cubits, for at that depth the fullness of the air puts the lamps out.

All the material dug out from the inside Twiloon is pulled up to the surface in small buckets, all worked by enormously long pivoted bamboo ladders with a counterpoise, and the tourmaline is sorted out of band, the granitic fragments being piled in a wall around the mouth of the shaft.

BUCKFIELD.

The farm buildings owned and occupied by Herbert Record of Buckfield were burned, Friday afternoon. The fire started around the chimney. A part of the household goods were saved. These were loaded on a team when the house took fire and ran away, where the fire started. This was the second time the farm has been in the Record family for many years. The buildings had been recently repaired and it was a comfortable home.

The Experience of a Poultry Dealer.

Only in recent years has poultry-keeping taken a place among recognized industries. Many of the successful poultry men of to-day were not experts when they began, but had to learn by experience.

"In regard to Sloan's Liniment for poultry diseases," writes E. R. Spaulding, of Jaffrey, N. H., "a disease called roup is one of the greatest drawbacks in raising poultry. It is somewhat similar to distemper in a horse. After trying and experimenting with about everything recommended, I found that Sloan's Liniment was the speediest and surest remedy for roup, and I can especially recommend it for canker in the wind-pipe."

Send for Dr. Sloan's free book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs, and Poultry. Address: Dr. Earl S. Sloan, 615 Albany Street, Boston, Mass.

Paying by Check.

A friend of the editor who came in to pay an account the other day took a check book from his pocket with the remark that for the past two years he had paid all his bills by checks and found the system a most satisfactory one. The check method of payment has several strong arguments in its favor and should be more generally employed. In the first place, where accounts are paid thus, the checks made payable to order, with the payee's signature endorsed on the back, it serves as a receipt for the system, while the stub in the hands of the payer states for what purpose the check was drawn.

Again, with this system the bank keeps one's books and is glad to do so in return for the additional circulating medium which is thus placed in its hands. If a fellow loses his pocketbook and a dishonest person finds it there is always a loss of silver or paper currency which cannot be identified or recovered; the check book, no one can get money through it except by forging the owner's name, which is a penitentiary offense.

Finally the check system gives one a complete record of expenditures and enables him to let the system, while the counts at the end of the year show where his money has gone, a record that is likely to be very uncertain and hazy when he uses the cash system and does not keep a careful record of the same.

Of course the check system presupposes a bank account, in the accumulation of which the individual ought not to need particular urging.

Study of Forest Taxation.

Washington, D. C.—The first exhaustive study of the forest taxation problem, as it is presented by the actual workings of existing laws, to be attempted by any State, has been undertaken by the New Hampshire State Forestry Commission, in co-operation with the United States Forest Service. The study will take in all of the many questions of forest land taxation and the protection of New Hampshire forests from the tax of New Hampshire State Forestry Commission, in co-operation with the United States Forest Service. The study will take in all of the many questions of forest land taxation and the protection of New Hampshire forests from the tax of New Hampshire State Forestry Commission, in co-operation with the United States Forest Service.

Because of its thoroughness, New Hampshire's study is sure to be followed with great interest by New York, Maine, Michigan, Pennsylvania and the other states which are finding the forest tax problem a serious check to forest preservation. Mr. Foster will find by painstaking inquiry in different parts of the State and among all classes of citizens just how the present laws are administered, how they are regarded, and what their effect is on the lumber industry. The study will be a result will be to furnish New Hampshire with a better basis for revising its system of taxing forest lands than any State has ever had before, if changes in the present laws are found to be needed.

Design of timberland regarded by officers of the Forest Service as one of the most important matters now up for discussion. They believe that upon the right settlement of this question largely depends the rapidly with which private owners adapt themselves to the change is taking place along two directly opposite lines—for an increase in the amount of taxes to be paid by wild lands, on the one hand, and on the other for the passing of laws which will partially exempt forest lands from taxation.

In Maine and New York proposed changes in existing laws are now up for discussion. In Maine the tax commission appointed by the last legislature is endeavoring to hold public hearings, and the report goes that it will be asked to recommend a scheme whereby wild lands may be taxed on the same basis as municipal property, or about 2 per cent. annually. In the New York legislature a bill has been introduced which would tax timberlands managed with the approval of the Forest, Fish, and Game Commission at a rate not higher than that for barren or unproductive land in the same tax district, with an additional tax of three per cent. on the stumpage value of the timber when it is cut. Both measures would create a special class of property, in Maine to make it pay heavier taxes, in New York, lighter.

In Maine the value of standing timber is regarded as a part of the value of the land, and the owner is expected to pay a value tax as his timber grows more valuable, until he cuts it off. In the New York bill the timber is regarded as a growing crop, which, like other growing crops, should be exempted from taxation until it is harvested. The New York bill seeks to encourage forestry as a means of increasing the wealth of the State. The Maine plan is carried through will powerfully discourage forestry.

The New Hampshire study has been undertaken in the belief that it will help solve what is undeniably a knotty problem. A forest taxation law which is wise and practicable is by no means easy to draw up. Pennsylvania, a State which appreciates the value of its forests and the importance of forested lands to prevent non-agricultural lands from becoming worthless wastes, a law passed in 1905 providing for a rate of taxation on forested lands was pronounced unconstitutional by the courts because it destroyed uniformity of taxation. On the other hand, the State of Michigan has one-sixth of its area on the delinquent tax list because the law is so useless for any purpose but growing forests and is taxed too high to be held by the owners for this purpose. It is not easy to draft a law which is workable, fair to all property owners, and in the best interest of the State, as this is proved in keeping its forest lands productive.

One of the guiding principles to be recognized, however, the government's foresters point out, is that it does not pay any community to tax one of its productive industries out of existence. It is much better to have timberland pay a low tax steadily than to have them so lumbered as to lose practically all of their value. The heavy tax advocated in Maine, which will probably, if carried through, drive a great deal of capital out of the State. This capital is now invested in standing timber. At present the owners have shown that they wish to cut conservatively, protect their holdings against fire, and plan for growth as heavy future crops. The tax on the same land, but at a tax of 2 per cent. a year on young timber, they say, sets a premium on its destruction. A power, however, is given the owner to reduce the value of his property by cutting off everything in sight. If this is true it will not help the citizens of Maine in the long run to tax heavily for a short time property that can and will get quickly away, leaving only a waste behind.

It is an old story, the goose and the golden egg over again. The forest is a valuable asset to the State of Maine not only for the timber they grow, but also for the support they give to other industries. The money they bring in through the expenditure of sportsmen and tourists. Putting a disguised burden on cutting them off will, in the opinion of forestry experts, lower the tax-paying power of the State and throw a heavy burden on the very persons who are hoping to decrease their present taxes by making the wild land pay more. The farmer who is discontented because woodlands are assessed so low should remember that he does not himself pay taxes on his land, and that a half a loaf is better than no bread, and that it is better for a man to look before he leaps than to find too late he has landed in a hole.

THE Old Family Stand-by.

BROWN'S INSTANT RELIEF.

Used as directed can be relied on to relieve acute pains of the stomach and bowels. Used in thousands of New England Homes.

Prepared by The Norway Medicine Co., Norway, Maine.

MOST PEOPLE DO NOT KNOW CAUSE OF THEIR SICKNESS

Does human health depend on one organ alone? This question is becoming widely discussed since L. T. Cooper first advanced his theory that the stomach is the true seat of life and all health dependent upon it.

Mr. Cooper, who has met with remarkable success in the sale of his new medicine, believes that the stomach is responsible for most sickness, and that this organ is weak in the present generation.

While discussing this theory recently, he said: "I am asked time and again to tell why my medicine has made such a record wherever I have introduced it. My answer always is, 'because it restores the stomach to a normal condition. No one will deny that to-day there are more half-sick men and women than ever before. Nothing critical seems to be the matter with them. They are just half-sick most of the time. They don't know really what is the matter with them. I have talked with thousands during the past two years, and few knew what their trouble was. One said nervously, another said kidney trouble, another liver complaint, some constipation, or heart trouble, or lung trouble. Many had treated, as they called it, for most of these diseases at different times. A very common complaint is 'all run down,' or 'tired all the time,' or 'no appetite.'"

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble, and nothing else. My New Discovery puts the stomach in sound condition in about six weeks. Mighty few people can be sick with a sound digestion. That is why my medicine, selling at such a tremendous rate, has convinced many thousands of people that these things are so, and number is growing by leaps and bounds. Among more recent converts to Mr. Cooper's beliefs is Mr. Edgar L. Hinds, living at 6 Tappan Street, Everett, Mass. Mr. Hinds has this to say on the subject:

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for eight years. I was not sick enough to be in bed, but just felt bad all the time. My greatest trouble was that I always felt tired, would get up in the morning feeling as tired as when I went to bed.

"I had a very irregular appetite, and was troubled with dizzy spells. I stood for any length of time, I had a dull pain in the lower part of my back. I was nervous and felt all the time as though something terrible was going to happen. I tried many kinds of medicine, but nothing ever helped me.

"I had about given up all hope of being in good health again, when I heard so much of Cooper and decided to try his medicine. I took one bottle of his New Discovery and was greatly surprised at the result. I gained 12 pounds in a few weeks. I can now eat anything I wish and feel like a new man. I fully recommend this medicine to all sufferers from stomach trouble."

It is worth anyone's time, who is not enjoying good health, to learn of Mr. Cooper's wonderful preparations. We are selling them in large quantities.

BETHEL.

A Bethel Woman in Her New Home. Mrs. Ellen P. Kimball, for many years correspondent at Middle Intervale, Bethel, has gone to her daughter's at Monroe Bridge, Mass., and this is what she writes of her new home:

"Farming now through Deerfield valley. This is near the Hoosic Tunnel and North Adams and about 140 miles from Boston. The Berkshire mountains are in the distance and here is the beautiful scenery and summer resort of western Massachusetts. All away along the line from Boston here hardly any pine trees are seen, some gray birch and maple and miles takes you into Vermont where maple sugar and butter abound. Mr. Harvey, an old veteran here with one eye and only one good leg, rendered some old-time music on a violin by ear and some modern music by his son from a phonograph. There are many mills in the vicinity and workmen of various nationalities. There are three churches near here at Readsboro, Catholic, Baptist and Methodist.

When we started from Bethel, April 9, rode to the depot in a sleigh, when we arrived in Boston the same day found bare ground and weather warm enough to wear a summer hat. Stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kerwin, also with Frank McKee and wife. Mr. McKee has relatives in Stoneham, Mass. Called on Mrs. Martha D. Wright (nee Packard) only one now living of the once large family of Stephen Packard of Woodstock, whose father was Daniel Packard, a Revolutionary soldier and his wife a nurse.

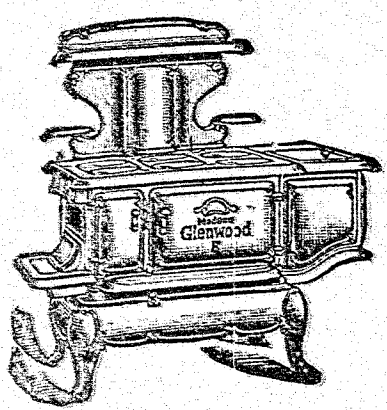

Mrs. Wright is 78 years of age and a fine looking woman and of rare intelligence. Two of her children, a son and daughter, live with her and the others are married and live in the vicinity of Boston, so she is now in her old age surrounded by her children and families. She is a young looking woman of the age and her children say "she is a beautiful woman."

After a short visit Boston we started for Hoosic Tunnel and Monroe Bridge which is about eight miles further in the Deerfield river valley where is some of the most beautiful scenery in New England on cutting them off will, in the opinion of forestry experts, lower the tax-paying power of the State and throw a heavy burden on the very persons who are hoping to decrease their present taxes by making the wild land pay more. On the way are thriving industrial centers from which radiate roads and trails to rivers and lakes and the hunting grounds of the southern Green mountains, there being

Suggestions on Home Gardening.

The amateur who wishes to obtain the greatest possible pleasure from the flowers he can grow should study the characteristics of each kind he chooses and see that each serves a purpose. Should be love fragrance, he will find nicotiana affinis with its abundant star shaped white flowers, delightful in its perfume on a summer's evening. It is an excellent plant for a border, planted in front of taller growing shrubs.

He should study color effects in laying out his flower beds. For a bed where a mass of yellow is desired, golden California poppy is useful. It must be sown where it is to bloom as it does not transplant well. For side and back fences, clumps of single and double holly hocks are good, planted in masses. A flower which grows almost as high as a holly hock is rubecula golden glow, which produces a wealth of golden flowers good for cutting.

In the backyard garden it is a good plan to devote the space in front of one fence to dahlias and cosmos for those are sure to please the most fastidious flower lover. If there happens to be a sunny exposure in the garden, plant a few pompon chrysanthemums, which are hardy. They will give an effective display of tiny flowers in autumn. The Drummond phlox are exceedingly pretty low growing annuals which show in mass. They last but a few weeks in a warm situation.

Of the dahlias, the cactus and decorative forms are becoming more and more popular every year. They should be planted so their late blossoms in August, September and later will help make the garden bright after many other flowers have ceased blooming.

The pansy or heartsease is one of the oldest and most popular of garden flowers. The brilliancy and variety of their colors make them most useful as border plants. The amateur may sow seed in the spring, where the soil is moist and not too warm and he will get plants that will blossom until fall. The flowers must be kept picked closely to insure steady blooming.

If earlier blossoms are desired, plants that have been carried through the winter in cold frames should be obtained from the florist. The plants should be set out as soon as the ground is in condition for working and the danger of frost is past. The only cultivation necessary is stirring the ground to keep it from baking and keeping the bed reasonably free from weeds.

The grower who wishes to have his own early plants should sow seed in August or September and transplant the seedlings to pots to be kept in the house or better still to cold frames with good soil where they may remain until winter, when they would be protected by glass and boards.

The "mock orange" of Philadelphia is popularly known as "syringa" and the latter is the botanical name for lilac. The mock orange family comprises about thirty species of hardy, ornamental shrubs varying in height from five to twenty feet, many of them admirably adapted for the decoration of home grounds.

One of the first shrubs to blossom this spring will be the lilac, which is deservedly one of the most popular of plants. It may well be called a "queen of shrubs" and is a favorite because of its remarkable hardiness, the showy clusters of its abundant and fragrant blossoms, and its patience under cultural abuse.

The common lilac (Syringa vulgaris) is the most common in the gardens and from it have sprung a large number of showy forms which are grown in parks and by more expert gardeners. While the lilac grows in almost any soil, to obtain the best results it should be planted in rich, well drained soil, somewhat heavy with a little clay in it if possible. — [Times.]
